I am a student spouse. My spouse is a PhD candidate in Electrical Engineering.

How did you hear about the CCIS? What do you know about the work they do with Stanford students and spouses?

I knew about CCIS through friends at the Bechtel International Center. I am appreciative of the Spouse Education Fund (SEF) that they offer to spouses like me.

I was a recipient of the SEF in 2009. I have also attended the potluck parties organized by CCIS over the years.

When and how did you decide to participate in these CCIS programs?

I participated in the SEF program in 2009.

How has your experience been taking part in CCIS's programs?

CCIS programs help me feel at home in the Stanford community. They are there to remind us that someone cares and that we aren't alone facing the challenges of coming into a totally new environment.

What message would you like to give to the CCIS?

Dear CCIS,

I am appreciative of the SEF that you offered and I am grateful for the various potlucks that you organized to help bring the international community closer. The activities of CCIS have helped to make the integration into the wider Stanford/SF/Bay Area community easier for student spouses like me. So kudos to CCIS and to all who have contributed to CCIS in one way or another.

Angela
